

What if homes were streamable, just like music or movies.

You can be wherever you need to be, to be inspired by whatever fires your imagination.

Wherever, whenever but always at home.

New Eelam's flexible housing service will give global citizens a growing stake in a collection of beautifully designed homes in some of the world's most charismatic neighborhoods, so you can move around between cities as you wish.

We're making it as simple as a flat-rate monthly subscription, so you won't have to choose between the security of home ownership and the flexibility to move around.

Because we want to enable a more fluid form of citizenship beyond borders.

So that the whole world can be our home.
